The building marks Previti's other companies. An asterisk (*) marks money paid by a group after it reported receiving money from Industrial Integrity Solutions, Previti's marijuana (cannabis) company. That shows timing only: committee funds are pooled, and filings do not show which dollars were passed on.

How money from Industrial Integrity Solutions (Previti's marijuana (cannabis) company) reached Rancho Cucamonga officials

- * Industrial Integrity Solutions (Previti's marijuana (cannabis) company) did not give directly to these officials. It gave to three political groups; those groups (or groups they funded) later gave to or spent for the officials. Because each group pools money from many donors, this shows timing, not which dollars were passed on.

What these figures can and can't show. Committee funds are pooled, and filings do not show which dollars were passed on. The exact amount of marijuana money that reached any candidate can't be determined. The groups named here also had many other givers, who are not tied to Previti by being listed.

Rich Munkvold: how he's connected

Richard “Rich” Munkvold (listed CFO of Previti's companies) appears in public records as the chief financial officer of several James L. Previti companies, as an officer of the John P. Previti Memorial Foundation, and as the person signing for Previti's political giving company in 2024.

Why this matters. A CFO (chief financial officer) is the executive who runs a company's money. When the same person holds that job across a homebuilding and development business, a marijuana (cannabis) company and a political giving company, it raises a fair question: how closely are these companies run together? Each role below is exactly as written on the dated record. A role is a job title, not a description of conduct.

Charts: the companies and his roles

Two charts show the same records as pictures. The first chart has two pages: page 1 puts Previti in the middle with his companies, foundation and political committees around him; page 2 puts Munkvold in the middle with his role at each one. The second file is a table of his roles, company by company, with each source.

What the records don't show

- No filing found lists him as treasurer of any committee.
- No role for him appears in the state marijuana (cannabis) license records; a search for “Munkvold” returned 0 results [S-103].
- No Munkvold role was found at SB County GOP (San Bernardino County Republican Party) or at the other political committees that received Previti-company money (records reviewed in the Munkvold report).

Questions worth asking: who decides where these companies' political money goes, and does the same finance team handle the homebuilding, marijuana and political-giving companies? The records list the titles; they do not answer those questions. Full Munkvold report \(PDF\)

The Records Raise Questions

- * 1. Previti's companies include a marijuana (cannabis) business, Industrial Integrity Solutions. That money now reaches Rancho Cucamonga's elected officials. Worth asking: is this the money residents want funding the people who run their city?
- * 5. The records show the marijuana (cannabis) company's money going to other groups first, and those groups then giving to the candidates, sometimes two steps removed. That makes it harder for voters to trace. Worth asking: should voters be able to see that path more easily?
